

Chris Carson (He/Him)

Intel Analyst

Chris is an intel analyst in the U.S. Air Force, getting ready to retire in a year. His career has run the gamut of experiences, but he has always loved computers, programming, and solving puzzles. All of which lend themselves well to finding data backed solutions to complex national level threat questions. Most of his time currently is spent creating training materials for the next generation of analysts to ensure skills continuity.

He currently lives near Ramstein Germany with his family where they spend their spare time traveling around Europe to experience new places, foods, and cultures.

Contact Me!

Email: ccarson@email.com

Or look for me on LinkedIn.

Projects

1. Title: About Me

Description: A simple Flask-based web app that implements templates and blueprinting to provide information about me.

Link: GitHub Location